PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE TO GRADUATES

Dear Graduates,

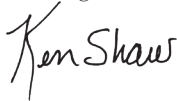

On behalf of every Southern Adventist University employee, I congratulate you on completing your courses of study and receiving your well-deserved degrees. We are proud of you!

We pray that as Southern alumni, you will continue to hold dear the Christian values you have experienced here, that you will excel in your occupations, and that you will continue to listen to and be part of God's calling in your lives, resulting in meaningful service in your churches and communities.

To your loved ones who have provided financial, emotional, and spiritual support, we thank them. The renowned scientist Isaac Newton once wrote that he was able to accomplish so much because he was "standing upon the shoulders of giants." I join you in acknowledging the giants in your lives, the ones who have loved, cared about, and supported you.

You have put in the hard work and completed a job well done. You are now equipped to go and lead. "The Lord bless you, and keep you; the Lord make His face shine on you, and be gracious to you; the Lord lift up His countenance on you, and give you peace" (Numbers 6:24-26).

Blessings,

Ken Shaw
President

SOUTHERN SCHOLARS

In addition to maintaining a 3.50 GPA and meeting normal degree requirements, Southern Scholars complete a special honors curriculum involving interdisciplinary studies, honors courses, and independent study. This semester, two graduates earned that distinction. The titles of their senior research projects are listed below:

Loanette Yenelys Chavez

“The Effect of Different Lactic Acid Doses on Lewis Lung Carcinoma Cells and Cardiac Fibroblasts”

Renée Joelle Hanson

“That’s Just the Way I Am: Conscientiousness, Neuroticism, State-Trait Anxiety, and High-Pressure Exam Grades in Undergraduate Students”

THE MACE

The mace is a traditional symbol used to communicate and designate authority. The Southern Adventist University mace was crafted in 1986 by John Durichek, a Southern alum. Southern’s mace represents its heritage and raison d’être (reason for existence). The base is of pine from Jones Hall, built in 1917 and razed in 1985. The main staff is of walnut. The seven rings represent completeness. The four-sided ebony segment is seen as Southern’s underlying educational philosophy—balanced mental, spiritual, physical, and social development for each student. The brass flames represent the Holy Spirit.

Bearing the mace is the grand marshal, Kristie Wilder, chair of the University Senate and professor in the School of Social Work. Her regalia is evergreen, the university’s traditional color.

PHILANTHROPY MEDALLION

Graduates are wearing a gold zipper-pull medallion in honor of the alumni, family, and friends who have donated to the class gift this year.

ACADEMIC REGALIA

The color of velvet trim on the hoods represents the area of study. The color of the silk lining represents the university that conferred the degree. The color of the tassel represents the degree of the undergraduate.

CULTURAL GRADUATION STOLES

The cultural stoles celebrate Southern's Asian, African/Black Christian Union, European, Latin American, Native American, and Oceania Islanders student groups. They represent the fabric that makes this university a diverse community and spiritual family in faith. "After this I looked, and there before me was a great multitude that no one could count, from every nation, tribe, people and language, standing before the throne and before the Lamb. They were wearing white robes and were holding palm branches in their hands. And they cried out in a loud voice: 'Salvation belongs to our God, who sits on the throne, and to the Lamb'" (Revelation 7:9-10, NIV).

Dedicated to the success of her students, Noemi Gonzalez, MS, has been an associate professor in the Biology and Allied Health Department since 2018. Students appreciate her desire to help them understand class content, as well as the personal interest she takes in each individual.

Gonzalez is known for her caring personality and is described as “extremely personable and an amazing professor,” “patient, kind, and caring,” and “a very kind woman of God” who “shows interest” in students’ lives. As an extension of her caring attitude, Gonzalez is “very interactive with the class” and “passionate about the success of her students.” One student notes her thoughtfulness: “She sees the needs of her students and tries her best to serve them to the best of her ability.” Another student describes her attentiveness: “She always has time for questions, and her enjoyment of the science she teaches is palpable. I truly feel she cares about our success.”

Gonzalez also demonstrates a deep understanding of her field and a gift for instructing students, facilitating critical thinking in her courses, presenting lectures that are “well-structured and clear,” encouraging questions, and going “the extra mile in creating learning tools.” Students appreciate that she “has a proficient understanding of the material and she knows how to explain difficult concepts.”

A fellow faculty member shares, “I have never seen someone with more students in her office, with each student still receiving the utmost care, as I routinely witness with Noemi. She embodies teaching excellence.”

Gonzalez is originally from Puerto Rico, where she obtained bachelor’s degrees in biology and secondary education from Antillian Adventist University and a Certificate in Medical Technology from Interamerican University. She graduated with a Master of Science in Biology from Andrews University in Berrien Springs, Michigan, where she researched immunology and parasitology. Being a licensed medical technologist has allowed her the privilege of combining academic, research, and clinical work opportunities for approximately 30 years. Additionally, Gonzalez holds certification with the American Society of Clinical Pathologists. She finds her greatest joy in sharing life with her husband, Jose Vega, and their two adult children.

Celebrating her enthusiasm for teaching and the encouragement she offers to students, Southern Adventist University is pleased to present Noemi Gonzalez with the President’s Award for Teaching Excellence.

FOR EXCELLENCE IN SCHOLARSHIP

Known for the quality and quantity of his scholarly output, Harvey Alférez, PhD, joined the School of Computing in 2022, where he serves as professor and director of the Center for Innovation and Research in Computing (CIRC). While his scholarly publications are impressive on their own, Alférez also embraces a dedication to teaching and sharing his expertise. He is committed to “facilitating student involvement” and “sharing across disciplines.” In addition, his research is described as “high quality and publishable,” among other notable merits.

“Harvey doesn’t just publish—he includes every student willing to tackle research with him. He has submitted multiple papers with students in the two years he’s been here,” notes a fellow professor. “He shares his passion for research on and off campus, and he does so with a beautifully mission-minded approach. He blends research with other academic experiences within a biblical worldview that frames exploration and sharing our findings as a God-given calling. He’s an inspiration!”

Another peer shares, “He is really enthusiastic about disseminating and helping others learn about his research findings as well as how to be better researchers themselves.”

Alférez holds a PhD in Computer Science from Universitat Politècnica de València in Spain, a MSc in Information and Communication Technology from Assumption University in Thailand, and a BSc in Computer Science Engineering from Universidad EAFIT in Colombia. He also engaged in postdoctoral research at the Geoscience Research Institute in collaboration with Loma Linda University. He is certified in data science and big data analysis by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, in statistical analysis by the University of Canterbury in New Zealand, and in Geographic Information Systems by the University of Alaska Fairbanks.

His research interests include data science, artificial intelligence, services computing, model-driven engineering, models at runtime, autonomic computing, and dynamic software product lines.

In recognition of his dedication to pursuing knowledge and sharing his research and talents with others, Southern Adventist University is pleased to present Harvey Alférez with the President’s Award for Excellence in Scholarship.

D I S T I N G U I S H E D   S E R V I C E   M E D A L L I O N

Professor Bruce Schilling, PhD, has served as a faculty member at Southern Adventist University for nearly 28 years, joining the Chemistry Department in the summer of 1996. During that time, he has not only devoted his time to creating an exceptional academic environment, but he has also been an outstanding example of service and hospitality.

As a sponsor of the Chemistry Club for more than two decades, Schilling is known on campus for opening his home for club events, “legendary” vespers services, Sabbath lunches, and graduation parties. Students particularly love the homemade pumpkin bread he bakes each year, his homemade ice cream, how he “never hesitates to donate food and treats,” and that he “goes out of his way to make great memories with students and help them have a home away from home.” One individual shares, “Dr. Schilling and his wife are awesome! They are part of my best memories, and I’m sure many other students’ as well.”

Schilling is also involved in the local community and is described as having “a heart of service.” He is active at Collegedale Seventh-day Adventist Church, where he has served as “a deacon, a leader and teacher in adult and children’s Sabbath Schools, and a singer in the Master Chorale.” He “helps out at the children’s Sabbath School every week” and “often plays the piano.” In addition, he completes puzzles for the Samaritan Center to make sure each piece is accounted for. In this area of service, he has also “enlisted the help of the Chemistry Club, increasing the service contributions of the club and providing additional opportunities for socializing and building relationships.”

Known for his “outstanding teaching,” Schilling’s General Chemistry course is “one of the most popular, and always has a waitlist.” Attentive to the needs of students, he “holds extra review sessions for the exam on the weekend before a test” and adeptly leads students “through the transition from high school thinking to university thinking.” Success in his courses is said to be “foundational for students’ continuing success at Southern, and afterward in graduate school, medical school, dental school, pharmacy school, and other professional programs.”

As described by fellow faculty, Schilling “never stops, learning, growing, and improving.” He is said to have “combined high academic standards with an ability to build strong relationships with his students.” He is dedicated to his field, develops character in his students, and excels at incorporating a Biblical foundation in the courses he instructs. One of Schilling’s desires is for each student at Southern to learn more about God through his or her studies and interactions with faculty, staff, and other students.

Schilling obtained his bachelor’s degree from Andrews University in Berrien Springs, Michigan, in 1981. He continued his education at the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena and received his PhD in Physical Chemistry in 1987. His doctoral research focused on experimental and theoretical studies of the reactions and bonding between gas-phase transition metal ions and small hydrocarbons.

After graduation, Schilling worked at Amoco Corporation in the mass spectrometry area for five years. He then worked for the U.S. Department of Energy at Argonne National Laboratory applying extraction, separation, and mass spectrometric techniques to environmental analysis problems.

Schilling enjoys sports, outdoor activities, gardening, and spending time with his wife, Nancy, and their two grown sons and their families.

In recognition of his unwavering hospitality to students, dedication to excellence in education, and continued commitment to Christian service, Southern Adventist University is pleased to present Bruce Schilling with the Distinguished Service Medallion.
